

Consultant Biography

DAN CARNEY

Dan Carney serves as Executive Vice President in the firm's Cleveland office. A search generalist, he is also a member of DHR's Advanced Technology, Private Equity and Venture Capital, Sales, and Non-Profit and Higher Education Practices.

Prior to joining Executive Search, Mr. Carney recognized that effective leadership is the most critical variable in the success of any commercial endeavor. As such, search consultants can have more of an impact on an institution or company's fortunes than any other advisor, and therefore, must be diligent and tenacious in their work finding optimal talent to drive maximum value. In addition to identifying great talent to build executive teams, he is known for his personal approach with candidates and his ability to recruit senior players in their sector.

Mr. Carney has served clients through his association with other search firms and most recently from his own firm. His earlier experience includes several years as a management consultant with two international consulting firms, Diamond Technology Partners and CSC Consulting. Prior to consulting, Mr. Carney held several manufacturing and operations management roles with major corporations including Lord Corporation, Helix Technology, and Proctor and Gamble.

Mr. Carney received his BS in Chemical Engineering from North Carolina State University in Raleigh, North Carolina and his MBA from Harvard Business School in Boston, Massachusetts. Outside of his professional work activities, he is deeply involved in community affairs through his role as President of the Harvard Business School Club of Northeast Ohio.
